Installation

Installing the wireless transmitter

1. Position the wireless transmitter near your video source device (i.e. Computer, Blu-ray Player).
2. Connect the video output on your HDMI source device to the HDMI input port on the wireless transmitter, using an HDMI cable (not included).
3. (Optional) If you're using the wireless video extender to transmit an infrared (IR) signal, connect the IR blaster to the IR blaster output port on the wireless transmitter, and position the extended bulb of the IR blaster directly in front of the IR sensor on your HDMI source device. Check the manual of your HDMI source device for the IR sensor location.
4. Using one of the included power adapters, connect the wireless transmitter to an available electrical outlet.

The wireless transmitter is now installed.

Installing the wireless receiver

1. Position the wireless receiver near your HDMI display (i.e. television, projector).
2. Connect the HDMI output port on the wireless receiver to the input on your HDMI display, using an HDMI cable (not included).
3. (Optional) If you're using the wireless video extender to transmit an infrared (IR) signal, connect the IR receiver to the IR receiver input port on the wireless receiver, and position the extended bulb of the IR receiver in the general area you would like to point your IR control.
4. Using one of the included power adapters, connect the wireless receiver to an available electrical outlet.
The wireless receiver is now installed and your HDMI source will be wirelessly transmitted to your HDMI display.

Notes:

- The maximum distance between the transmitter and the receiver is 50 meters. If the wireless signal is obstructed by walls, or other interference the signal quality and maximum distance will likely be reduced.
- When extending infrared, this product can only support an IR signal in the 38 kHz carrier modulation mode.

FCC Compliance Statement

This equipment has been tested and found to comply with the limits for a Class B digital device, pursuant to part 15 of the FCC Rules. These limits are designed to provide reasonable protection against harmful interference in a residential installation. This equipment generates, uses and can radiate radio frequency energy and, if not installed and used in accordance with the instructions, may cause harmful interference to radio communications. However, there is no guarantee that interference will not occur in a particular installation. If this equipment does cause harmful interference to radio or television reception, which can be determined by turning the equipment off and on, the user is encouraged to try to correct the interference by one or more of the following measures:

- Reorient or relocate the receiving antenna.
- Increase the separation between the equipment and receiver.
- Connect the equipment into an outlet on a circuit different from that to which the receiver is connected.
- Consult the dealer or an experienced radio/TV technician for help

This device complies with part 15 of the FCC Rules. Operation is subject to the following two conditions: (1) This device may not cause harmful interference, and (2) this device must accept any interference received, including interference that may cause undesired operation. Changes or modifications not expressly approved by StarTech.com could void the user's authority to operate the equipment.
